A Message from the Minister of Agriculture

IT IS a pleasure to send a message to the graduating students at the Olds School of Agriculture.

I wish to extend congratulations to the girls and boys who, having completed the prescribed courses, are receiving diplomas in Agriculture and Home Economics this year. The number graduating this year is larger than usual owing to the group of Vermilion students completing the courses at Olds, and I am pleased that so many rural girls and boys are receiving the benefit of the training provided for them at Olds.

Our country needs trained men and women to assume responsibility in these difficult times and I am sure that members of the graduating class will find many opportunities of rendering service in the rural areas of the province, and in many phases of the national war effort. In the work assigned to you I feel sure you will give a good account of yourselves and I wish you every success.

D. B. MacMILLAN,
Minister of Agriculture.

Foreword

THE 1941-42 issue of "Echoes" is a souvenir for another group of young people about to graduate from the Olds School of Agriculture and Home Economics. I am very pleased to contribute a brief "foreword" to a book which will be treasured by each graduate and appreciated as a reminder of college days.

The Year Book marks one more graduating class, another milestone in the magnificent record of the Olds School, and it inscribes names and photographs of fine girls and boys graduating in a year that may yet be recorded in history as the most eventful and momentous in this century.

You have enjoyed the pleasures and benefits of an institution which was established to train rural young people for peace-time pursuits. It is my earnest hope that at an early date, you may find it possible to apply yourselves to the tasks for which you have been trained. When victory has been won and peace restored, you who have had some training will be expected to assume responsibility in the post-war period of adjustment and reconstruction.

During the years that lie ahead, I wish you well, and I know we shall be proud of the class that was graduated in 1942, a class that included the students from the Vermilion School.

Sincerely yours,

J. R. SWEENEY,
Deputy Minister and
Superintendent of the Schools of Agriculture.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

TIME MARCHES rapidly on and we are again at the point when another class graduates and steps out into a turbulent world. The days of preparation for stern realities, the days of school are over. The sheltered life of classrooms and dormitories must be left behind and the tasks and responsibilities of every-day life met and mastered.

Seldom has there been a time when so much needed doing and doing well. The objective of your training has been to equip you to meet these tasks manfully and to carry them through creditably by giving you added knowledge, greater skill and more confidence in your ability. You will have ample opportunity to prove its value in what you do.

All manner of tasks lie ahead,—on the farms, in the homes, in the factories and in the armed forces of land, sea and air. It is yours to grapple with them. Already our classes have been thinned by enlistments. Many more will go to help stem the tide that rushes us on to a dark age from which recovery might take generations.

It is our earnest hope that your training here may enable you better to do the work you choose, that you have gained sufficient confidence in yourself to do it well and that your skill and enthusiasm may inspire others to greater accomplishments.

“Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.”

—JAMES MURRAY.

Valedictory

ONCE AGAIN another year of the O.S.A. courses has come to an end, and to-day, more than ever before we realize the value of the instruction which we have received here. True, we are facing difficult times and no doubt there will be darker years ahead, but I am sure that we who are graduating are better fitted to face hardships and difficulties and to do our part in improving these conditions.

Little do we realize how much the schooling which we have received here will mean to us; but let us make use of all that we have gained, and so do our part worthily in determining our nation's destiny.

Since coming to the O.S.A., we have met young farm people from all over the province, and within the space of a very short time we will once again be scattered to all parts of Alberta. The friendships we have made here are ours for the rest of our lives; and it is hoped that we will all be able to meet again and renew our acquaintances and talk of our happy days at the O.S.A.

Some of us no doubt will be in some branch of our nation's fighting forces; some may continue to further their education, and others may return home to devote their efforts to the important industry of agriculture. No matter where we find ourselves, let us remember that it is our duty to do our part in making this world a better place in which to live.

As we look back at the term 1941-42 many memories and thoughts crowd into our minds. We realize now, that the time which we have spent here has gone only too fast, and that we who are leaving the O.S.A. for our last time, only wish that we could have another year of fun, laughter, and classes to look forward to.

On behalf of the entire graduating class of 1942, I want to thank the staff of the O.S.A. for the kindness, hospitality and instruction, which they have given us during our course, and to those students who will be completing their course here next year, we wish the best of success.

—STAN. GOULD.

Editorial

THE YEAR BOOK STAFF takes great pleasure in presenting the 1941-42 issue of "Echoes". It is our sincerest hope that it reaches the high standard set up by previous issues, from which we have obtained much aid.

Many of us are leaving the O.S.A. for our last time, having completed our course here, and others still have another year in which to prepare themselves for the future.

The term 1941-42 has been a successful one, and one which will not soon be forgotten. While we have been here we have gained much, not only from instruction, but also from varied friendships we have made. What we have learned at the O.S.A. will linger with us for the rest of our lives.

Some of us no doubt will soon be in some branch of our nation's armed forces, while others will remain in some industry, either commercial or agricultural. No matter where we find ourselves let us do our work to the best of our ability, and make use of all that we have learned.

We hope that this book in years to come will bring back memories of our life at the O.S.A., and to those students who follow us, we wish the best of success.

We would like to take this opportunity of thanking all the students and staff, the advertisers, printers, and engravers for their kindly efforts and co-operation in preparing this book.

A LITTLE WORK

George du Maurier

A little work, a little play
To keep us going—and so, good-day!

Of love's bestowing—and so, good-night!
A little fun, to match the sorrow
Of each day's growing—and so, good-morrow!
A little trust that when we die
We reap our sowing; and so—good-bye!

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

OPENING DANCE . . .

The first social event of 1941-42 introduced a large number of students to the social life at O.S.A. We were warmly welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Murray, Miss Rogers and Mr. Price. A dance programme was arranged to get the students acquainted. Awards for Sports Day were presented by Mr. Sweeney, the highest awards going to Christine Munroe and Frank Kinney. A dance similar to our Friday night dances closed the evening.

INITIATION FROLIC . . .

This was a laughing event. The charming Freshettes were garbed with stocking pig-tails, red "F" on their foreheads, fake moustaches and reversed pajama top blouse, while the Freshies were adorned with reversed trousers, pajama shirts, glamorous make-up and sweet bows in their hair. The evening was a very enjoyable one, especially for the new students.

ALUMNAE DANCE . . .

A special event of this term at O.S.A. was the Alumnae Dance sponsored by the Alumnae Association. With the patriotic decorations of Union Jacks everyone was in the best of spirits—students, ex-students, and friends.

CHRISTMAS DANCE . . .

After struggling through dark days of Christmas exams., the dance was a welcome relaxation. With the thought of going home for the holidays everyone felt very gay and light-hearted. Mr. Murray presented the scholarships won by the O.S.A. and V.S.A. students last year. This dance was indeed a grand occasion for all.

FRIDAY NIGHT DANCES . . .

Everyone eagerly looked forward to the highlight of each week, the Friday night "Lit" and dance. The memory of these grand times we have had with our O.S.A. friends will remain long after college days are over. There are also blurry memories of the sleepy Saturday mornings.

MASQUERADE DANCE . . .

This was another "too short" evening of enjoyment and laughter. The costumes of the masquerade were great and varied. After the Grand March, ably directed by Mr. Price and Mr. Yauch, the prizes were given out. Miss Ferbey as a Ukranian peasant won the women's fancy dress prize. Most original—won by Ruth Whaley as a Moslem bride; comic couple—Kay Shennan and Marion McDonald, darkies; men's fancy dress—Ronald Rust as a Scots Highlander; and men's most original—Jack Perkins.

SUNDAY TREATS . . .

On an Indian summer Sunday a weiner roast was arranged for the students on the banks of the Little Red Deer river. Although there were no flies to bother us, the picnic accidents were as usual. A gay sing-song was led by Mr. Kemp around the camp fire and everyone agreed the day had been a huge success.

Later an ideal day was spent at Innis Lake for a skating party.

APARTMENT DAYS . . .

A girl, until she has experienced these few days in the apartment of dread, fright, panic, followed by a feeling of "Thank heaven it's over" cannot realize what she is missing. Each one has her special memories of exciting fears and successes in the O.S.A. apartment.

On Sunday, March 8th, Mr. and Mrs. Murray entertained the entire graduating class. The large number necessitated the students being divided into three groups of about thirty each. The boys found the host and hostess as delightful as the girls had previously reported. After tea was served by Mrs. Murray, who was assisted by members of the staff, group singing was enjoyed by all.

Truth is such a precious article let us all economize in its use.

—Mark Twain.

Education comes through doing things, making things, going without things, taking care of yourself, talking about things.

To get much out of school you have to take much with you when you go there.

Do your work with a whole heart and you will succeed—there is so little competition.

Men fight for a thing and lose, and the men they fought fight for the same thing under another name and win.

All arts are really one, and this one art is simply Expression—the expression of Mind speaking thru' its highest instrument, Man.

Let us be proud of our country, and not bespatter her men of mind with mud.

It is time to build,
It is time to unite,
It is time for faith,
It is time for brotherhood.

Let us all be glad we are Canadians and stand together for Canadian institutions.

LITERARY

UNDER THE guidance of Mr. Benn and the splendid co-operation of the Literary Society and students, we have been able to present a variety of programmes, including Literary, Dramatic, Movies and general entertainment.

The experience which we have all obtained in performing our individual duties will be a treasure which we shall be able to take with us and some day be of great beneficial value.

With much regret we wish to say that the usual glee club programme had to be cancelled owing to the lengthy illness of Miss Powell, which has made it impossible for her to supervise and direct the club.

FIRST YEAR PLAY

"COME INTO OUR PARLOR" DIRECTOR MISS FERBEY

INTER-CLASS PLAYS

TWO-IN-ONE PLAY

SECOND YEAR PLAY

INTERCLASS PLAYS . . .

Long will we remember the night of February 27 when the "Lit" committee presented the interclass plays. They consisted of three one-act plays staged in the Olds Auditorium.

The first year play "Walk Into Our Parlor" was directed by Miss Lillian Ferbey and consisted of the following cast:

Eveline Shirtcliff	Poppy
Chas. Mellafont	Jack
Mildred Leuhr	Gail
Don Norris	Vince

Poppy and Jack were two young adventurers who were eager to hasten the engagement of their sister Gail to Vince. Their plans and efforts, however, proved unnecessary when Vince announced that they were already married. This surprise was, in certain respects, rather unpleasant for the younger pair whose plans it upset considerably. Poppy had hoped to be Gail's bridesmaid whilst Jack had anticipated the borrowing of his brother-in-law's car which had been sold to make a payment on a new home.

We must all bow to the participants of the Two-In-One play "The Undercurrent", directed by Mr. W. S. Benn and featuring the following players:

Ruth Whaley	Ma Fischer
Louis Chauvet	Pa Fischer
Kay Allen	Annie Fischer
Ralph Erickson	Emil Fischer
Betty Maland	Miss Page
Kay Shennan	Mrs. Floyd

The setting was the basement of a cheap New York apartment house where Pa Fischer was employed as a janitor. He believed in ruling the household with an iron hand and expected the utmost in obedience. His daughter, Annie, was driven from home and into bad company, although her parents thought she was in the country with Miss Page, a wealthy welfare enthusiast. Each Thursday, Annie returned home for the sake of seeing her mother and brother. It so happened that on one of these occasions Miss Page called to see Annie and Pa Fischer learns that his daughter is employed in a nearby restaurant. In his rage he is about to beat Annie when Miss Page interferes and finally convinces him that she should take Annie home with her.

The Second Year class presented the comedy "Good Medicine", directed by Mr. C. E. Yauch. The cast included:

Blanche Jorgensen	Mrs. Graves
Jim McKinnon	Dr. Graves
Evalyn Wood	Mrs. Sage

A young married doctor, just entering into practice finds it extremely difficult to build up a business and is forced to take a job as delivery boy in a local grocery store. In the meantime Mrs. Sage, a society woman, calls to get treatment for her many ailments. Although the doctor insisted that she had nothing wrong with her she remained persistent in her ideas. After convincing arguments Dr. Graves persuaded Mrs. Sage that she had been "taken in" by highly paid society doctors.

She then admitted her state of good health and explained her purpose of locating an honest doctor whom she could employ as head physician in her new hospital, which she had recently opened. Dr. Graves accepted the position and all ends well.

IN GENERAL . . .

The first year "Lit" on March 6th brought to a close the entertainment supplied by members of the classes. The second year and two-in-one classes each supplied two programmes while the first year group, owing to its superiority in size, gave us three equally entertaining and enjoyable evenings.

The round table discussions, of which there were two, contributed to the winter's Friday night variety. The first, by the two-in-one and second year boys, dealt with the subject "Are There Too Many Farmers?", while the girls chose as their topic "Canada's Post War Problems." Both subjects were capably discussed by the participants.

MR. AND MRS. PEACOCK ENTERTAIN . . .

This year, as in previous years, the literary committee brought Ralph Peacock, Calgary baritone, to the O.S.A. auditorium to give the staff and students a programme of high class vocal selections. He was capably assisted by Mrs. Peacock who displayed great talent as an accompanist. The programme consisted of a variety of vocal numbers including such favorites as "The Lord's Prayer", "The Road to Mandalay", "The Green-Eyed Dragon" and "God Bless Canada".

OUTSIDE ENTERTAINMENT . . .

By way of a change from the usual week-end programme, two groups of young ladies, one from Olds and the other from Innisfail, were asked in to entertain.

The three Kirker sisters made their appearance early in the term and favored the audience with several instrumental and vocal selections. They featured the cello, violin and piano, while the programme was rounded out by several vocal numbers.

The Quintette from Innisfail included Joyce and Betty Smith, Marie Davidson, Margaret Center and a pianist. Like the former group they supplied many numbers, "The Tea Shop" being among the favorites of the majority present.

On December 19, Mrs. Weller of Calgary presented a play called "The Monkey's Paw". This play had previously won second prize at the national contest for one-act plays in Ottawa. The players were excellent and weird stage effects added greatly to the success of the play, which kept the audience on the edge of their seats. Mrs. Weller has been at O.S.A. before with a troupe and we are hoping she will again appear. We all join in taking this opportunity to thank the director and cast for a splendid presentation.

THE CHINOOK

Under the guidance of Ronald Rust as Editor, the staff of the Chinook produced a worth while school paper every two weeks during the year. The editorials were timely and full of meat, the news racy and down to date, the humor well selected and the art work highly creditable. It told us with commendable discretion some of the things others were doing and generally added to the enjoyment of the year.

THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The O.S.A. Alumni Association needs the support of every ex-student. It publishes the O.S.A. News from month to month and in this way disseminates to its members information about your class mates and school friends.

It can function only through your co-operation and that of others who have been students. Keep it going strongly by sending your membership fee of one dollar to Mr. C. E. Yauch, who is Secretary-Treasurer.

SPORTS

DURING THE past term athletic activity has greatly added to the spirit of the school and to the development of comradeship and fellowship among the students. Hockey held the spotlight during the winter and for good reason because the team gave some very fine exhibitions. Basketball, although it rather fell off after Christmas, was the order of the day before ice was made in the rink. Both these sports enjoyed a good season and both had large followings in "House League" activities.

Badminton was very popular, both girls and boys spending many happy hours slapping the bird back and forth in the gym.

Table tennis was enjoyed in both wings. New sets of equipment were obtained just after Christmas and there was keen rivalry among all who played.

Much thanks must be given to the Athletic Committee for the way in which different athletic activities were organized and also to Mr. Malyon, Mr. Parkinson and Mr. Armstrong for their tireless efforts in aiding the students in all their sports.

FIELD DAY

ONCE AGAIN the Staff and weatherman got together and provided a day, although a little chilly, ideal for the school athletes, who turned out in large numbers to contest the various events.

Competition was strong in all events and sportsmanship was shown at all times by both competitors and onlookers who cheered their favorites on to victories.

The honors of the day in the girls' events went to Christine Munro, who set a wonderful example in athletics by winning every event in which she entered.

In the boys' part of the sports Frank Kinney took home the bacon by nosing out Ken Branch and Lynn Haynes, both of whom made a strong bid for the honors.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

THE BOYS' basketball team, although they played only five games, showed their ability by losing only two of these. The boys were very fortunate to have players from last year as well as experienced players from the south of the province, who if they could have found the opposition, would more than likely have given a very good account of themselves.

Much thanks must be given to Mr. Parkinson for his tireless effort in coaching this team.

Thus as the term comes to an end, we find the boys played fine, heads-up ball all season to wind up with the following record against such notable teams as Carstairs, Botha, Bowden R.A.F. Games played, five; won, three; lost, two.

Left to Right—L. Yerex, H. Altheim, B. Linville, E. Johnson, B. Thomas, G. Jensen,
M. MacDonald, M. Robison, E. Anderson, Mr. Malyon (Coach).
Not Shown—C. Munro, J. Marshall, E. Shirtcliff.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

THE O.S.A. girls' basketball team was once again a credit to the sportsmanship of the fair sex of our school. This year the girls with a large number of them just starting out in this field, showed they had real ability and it was only the lack of experience that kept them from making history and placing themselves in the top basket of the basketball "Hall of Fame".

But just the same the girls played some very good games, and under the careful guidance of Mr. Malyon, showed distinct improvement each time out. A few more games and practises and the girls would really go places.

To date the girls have played six games. They have won two and lost four. Their opponents were of a very high calibre and included teams from Carstairs, Innisfail, Botha and O.H.S.

Back Row--D. McDonald, K. Allen, L. Haynes, B. Thomas, L. Chauvet, M. Story,
S. Fushtey, H. Altheim, G. Hartley.

Not in Picture--B. Sutton, L. Beck, K. Branch.

BADMINTON

AGAIN WE put away the rackets ending another season of badminton. Many enjoyable hours have been spent this term driving the birdie back and forth across the net.

Some of those taking part had never played before coming to O.S.A. but soon became very efficient at smacking the "feathers" back and forth at one another.

One tournament was held before Christmas, the results of which follow:

Mixed Doubles	Maurine Story, Jack Rose
Women's Doubles	Kay Allen, Bessie Thomas
Men's Doubles	Jack Rose, Jim McKinnon

Many of those taking part will probably never play again, but they will always remember the good times they had, either playing or waiting their turn to play. All the while they were developing friendships which will last forever.

HOCKEY

ALTHOUGH THE boys did not get under way until after Christmas this season, they worked hard and practised frequently when ice finally was ready.

Under the expert guidance of Mr. Armstrong, assisted by Donald McDonald and Ken Branch, the boys formed a squad of fast-skating, accurate-shooting, hard-checking hockey players who gave a very good account of themselves in the various games.

The close of the season was marked by a tournament played in the Olds Arena, in which four teams competed—Samis, Ennerdale, Olds and O.S.A. The final winner was Samis who just eked out a victory from O.S.A. by a 4-3 score.

We wish to extend our thanks to Mr. Armstrong for his wholehearted co-operation in managing and coaching the team and giving freely of his time to help out in school sports.

Games Played—Samis vs. O.S.A., 2-3; Samis vs. O.S.A., 3-9; Ennerdale vs. O.S.A., 6-7; Mount Royal vs. O.S.A., 3-8; O.S.A. vs. Samis, 3-6; O.S.A. vs. Ennerdale, 1-4; O.S.A. vs. O.H.S., 6-3; Bowden R.A.F. vs. O.S.A., 11-4; O.S.A. vs. Bowden R.A.F., 3-4; Samis vs. O.S.A., 2-7.

Important Conventions to Meet at O.S.A.

Each of these organizations has a Dominion-wide membership of over one thousand. It is five years since these societies have met in Alberta and the first time they have visited Olds. Between two and three hundred delegates are expected.

Other Summer Meetings.

Following the conventions of the C.S.G.A. and C.S.T.A. a number of courses will be held. These are well-established annual courses with the exception of the week devoted to Junior clubs. This is the first year for this course. It will bring together young people to the number of probably one hundred and fifty, representing grain and livestock clubs in the province.

The dates set for the various meetings are as follows:

School of Community Life	July 2nd to 10th
Alberta Women's Institute

THE LITTLE ROYAL

MARCH 14, 1942.

ONCE AGAIN the annual Little Royal of the O.S.A. was held, and proved to be one of the highlights in the year's activities, despite rather adverse weather conditions.

The animals shown were brought out in the pink of condition and all the boys must be complimented on the high-class showmanship which they displayed, and also on their good sportsmanship.

In preparing the animals for show the boys have learned much, and we are sure that from what we saw them do they can give a good account of themselves as showmen against any veteran.

All classes were judged by Professor Sackville of the University of Alberta, who also expressed his opinion of the boys on their showmanship.

FAMOUS SAYINGS BY FAMOUS PEOPLE

"All right boys, quit the horse play."

"Now I want you to get the significance of this."

"Prevention is better than cure."

"There are only a few lectures left, so you must do good conscientious work."

"And who's your cooking partner?"

"That was years ago when I was in Manitoba."

"Come on boys, or it will cost you money."

"Be sure and use your thimbles, girls."

"It's just common sense and a little bit of science."

"We'll start this exercise on the top of the left-hand page."

"Hurry to bed, girls."

"Will you boys kindly gather around by bench and give me your attention for a few minutes?"

"There have been some terrible marks—and a few good ones."

"Good night, girls."

"Would you repeat that question again please?"

"Good morning, gentlemen; where did we leave off last Monday?
Ah! Yes!"

"All right boys! Time to clean up!"

"That'll be the frosty Friday in July."

"Read chapters 1 to 87 inclusive of Crop Production in Western Canada."

"No notes today, boys; I just want to talk."

"Fire and blister, and call a Veterinary Surgeon."

"What are the outstanding new items this morning?"

"All right, Gates, get going and don't stop until you reach the end of the corridor!"

"I can keep a secret; it's the ones I tell them to that can't."

"Gosh! I could have had five more minutes sleep!"

"My mummy still loves me."

"And I said, 'How unfortunate'."

Mr. Malyon—"The best thing to do with a cull chicken is to cut its tail off close, right behind the ears."

COLLEGE LIFE

The ups and downs of college life are many. In the morning when everything is cold and dark, our wise-cracking room-mate from across the hall comes over, snaps on the light and informs us that it is time to get up and that we'll have to hurry if we are to make it in time for breakfast. From our warm and comfortable place in bed we jump and scramble for our clothes, trying to put them on in the half-blinding light. Then there is a rush for the washroom, where we endeavor to awaken ourselves by the use of a little cold water. But it is not until we get back upstairs that we are finally awakened, when we discover that "Old Faithful", our alarm clock, has let us down by losing fifteen minutes during the night, making us five minutes late already. Oh well! we would probably just have had mush anyway.

Having missed our breakfast, we soon quiet down a little, gather up our books and start off for school. On our way over we stop at the Coffee Shop where we try to make breakfast out of a butterhorn and a cup of coffee. This isn't very much, but it is the most we can afford because money seems to be one of the things that is rationed here at College. After our meagre meal we go down to the nurse's office to have our minor ailments attended to before going to classes. Here we find comfort, sympathy and understanding. Here we find two kind nurses ready to cure anything from dandruff to a heart ailment caused by the opposite sex. We almost linger too long because we hardly make it in time for our first class.

Now commences the daily grind, the morning classes drag along with just the usual incidents, i.e., Darrah comes in late for practically every class; DeMott is sent out for a little fresh air—all on account of a woman at that, and by the time Physical Training period comes, our numbers seem to be greatly depleted. Now I'm not saying anyone would skip class, but I'll bet if you asked Taggart how to go about it, that he could give you some very good information, I've often wondered what he does with all his spares.

Our classes after dinner start at 1.30 p.m. Animal Husbandry is our first period and because it is quite warm today in the pavilion it isn't long before McDonald and Grettum are off to slumberland. After the lecture, Grettum is asked to discuss the class of hogs. Being sound asleep he of course didn't know anything about it, but struggles through with a joke and a smile. The period ends at 3 p.m., at which time our Carpentry class begins. We really work hard during this period, which is quite unusual. At 4.30 p.m. our classes are over, but this does not mean the end of our work. Today is washday, so we must be off to the laundry room with an armful of clothes and a box of Chipso. Now if you want a good laugh you should come down and see us. With our pant legs rolled up to our knees and soap-suds up to our elbows, we rub away very industriously. Not only are we dripping wet from perspiration, but the floor seems to be quite moist from a great deal of splashing. One look at it would almost remind you of the poem, "Water, water everywhere"

However, after an hour's hard work, we depart, leaving our clothes on the line in a slightly better appearance than when we brought them in and of course the box of Chipso is all used. From the laundry room I go to the barns to see my "Little Royal" specimen, which happens to be a pig. Now don't laugh, pigs are all right, in fact they are quite a bit like women; if you handle them carefully from the beginning, you can train them to do almost anything.

When day is done and supper all over, we retire to our respective cells, as Mr. Kemp calls them, to make the most of our study period by reading funnies and playing poker. It isn't long before there is a racket in the short corridor and when there is something going on there you can be sure McDonald has his finger in the pie somewhere. The result is that the whole works are called to the Dean's room, one at a time, for a little discussion. What the discussions are all about we can only guess. Private conferences might be a good name for them.

Having had quite a time throughout the day, we return to the boarding house, our home. With the rest of the boys, I exchange some of the very unusual happenings of the day, which might be almost anything. Just as an example of what I mean, it seems that a couple of the boys were treated to cake by a certain young lady (I'm certain it was a Second Year) and they in turn fed it to a pig. It immediately stood on its hind legs and walked off barking—some cake! With a few tales like this it isn't long before bedtime comes around. I don't know whether it's the pig that's bothering me, but from what I hear from the rest of the gang, I make quite a night of it by falling out of bed a couple of times and whistling in my sleep.

Now I hope I haven't scared you, because this is really just one side of the story. And I suppose there is a purpose behind all this although it seems to be rather hard to see at the time.

—Knud Elgaard.

THE O.S.A. CREW

Onward toward victory
We're going fast,
We'll pull up the anchor
And climb up the mast;
"Aye, Aye, sir," from the crew
As we sail 'neath the skies of blue,
And we'll go on for O.S.A.
The crew that will fight,
For victory and for honour
Which is every crew's right.

A hundred-point man is one who is true to every trust; who keeps his word; who is loyal to the firm that employs him; who does not listen for insults nor look for slights; who carries a civil tongue in his head; who is polite to strangers without being "fresh"; who is considerate toward servants; who is moderate in his eating and drinking; who is willing to learn; who is cautious and yet courageous.

IF

(With Apologies to Kipling)

By Betty Maland.

If you can keep your head, when those about you,
Are yelling: "Hurry up you nut, come on!"
While all the clothes you want are ripped a mile wide,
And all the safety pins you want, are gone.
And if you can tranquilly apply your powder
And get it straight, and none into your hair
And get on just the right amount of lipstick
While "We will be lates," are flying through the air.
If you can go on, calmly getting ready,
While Dad or Mother fume and fret and stew,
And one shoe lace is missing from your oxford
And the other completely hidden from your view.
And then if you can stop and take a minute,
To make sure your stocking seams are straight,
The world is yours and all that's in it,
And what is more, I'll bet you get a date!

MY HOPES FOR GRADUATION

As I sit here idly twiddling my thumbs and look at this title I ask myself, "What hopes?" because I really haven't many. They tell me a person must do good conscientious work and find the significance of the lectures and he will have no worries about passing. Since those are the two things in which I am lacking I feel myself sinking rapidly into the danger zone as the fatal end draws near. Perhaps a few hours of study each night would clear up the matter. Did I say study? What have I ever done to deserve such a tragic ending? I'm quite satisfied with this world so I hate to think of leaving it. I guess I'll just touch wood with crossed fingers and hope for the best. Worry has killed many a man before his time and I'm not ready to kick the bucket for a few years yet. If and when I get my diploma I'm sure I can live to a ripe old age to advise other people's grandchildren to take a course at the Olds School of Agriculture.

Conduct, culture and character, are graces that go through life hand in hand, never separate or alone. Happy is he who has more than a speaking acquaintance with each.

HIGHLIGHTS OF CONVERSATION

Brothers and sisters have I none, but this man's father is my father's son. Who is it? Well, it seems that Andy and Gerry still disagree even after their long and heated discussion. Darrah insists that the picture is of his son, while Andy holds out that it is of himself.

Here's a warning to the future O.S.A. students. Never make a bet with "Parky" because we've tried it. Yes Sir! He can really put those distributor wires on in short order. It cost us $10.00 to find out.

Ronald Rust believes in standing closed to the razor lately after several futile attempts to grow a "cookie duster".

The last Christmas exam. was marked by a wild dash by Ken for the bath tub. From the bathroom window he encouraged his friends, who were all wrapped up in a math. test, to join him.

Bill McGuire has to bow to Andy Young when it comes to judging dairy cows. It seems that on a certain day in the Animal Husbandry Lab., Andy, in his criticizing, remarked that the cow wouldn't give a quart of milk from one quarter. Bill promptly called him for $2.00 and that night at milking time Andy collected, as the cow failed to meet McGuire's qualifications.

The O.S.A. second year girls showed great hospitality when they entertained the V.S.A. and two-in-one girls. A party was staged and the O.S.A. group made their "to-be" classmates feel right at home in their new surroundings.

On February 27, Ken Branch celebrated his twentieth birthday, and what a celebration. The boys gathered in Ken's room and were treated to roast chicken, cookies, cakes and water. All was in order as Mr. Price was present and the party broke up in the wee small hours of the morning.

Come then; let us to the task, to the battle, to the toil—each to our part, each to our station. Fill the armies, rule the air, pour out the munitions, strangle the U-boats, sweep the mines, plough the land, build the ships, guard the streets, succour the wounded, uplift the downcast, and honour the brave. Let us go forward together in all parts of the Empire, in all parts of this island. There is not a week, not a day, not an hour to be lost.

—Winston Churchill.

To awaken each morning with a smile brightening my face, to greet the day with reverence for the opportunities it contains; to approach my work with a clean mind; to hold ever before me, even in the doing of little things, the Ultimate Purpose toward which I am working; to meet men and women with laughter on my lips and love in my heart; to be gentle, kind and courteous through all the hours; to approach the night with weariness that ever woos sleep and joy that comes from work well-done—this is how I desire to waste wisely my days.—Thomas Dreier.

LIFE IN THE PRACTICE KITCHEN

Oh, that practice kitchen! Many tearful and joyous memories come back to one's mind at the very mention of it. Every girl who has attended the O.S.A. has some prize recollection, I am sure.

As a rule there are two types of girls at the beginning of the year, those who cannot boil water without burning it and those who are under the impression that a cooking teacher couldn't teach them anything. However, time tells the story and we all have our fun as well as nerve-wracking moments.

To start with we are shown all around the laboratory and as we're pretty hungry at this time of the afternoon, those big juicy maraschino cherries and dates really look good. Oh! But we mustn't touch—not even a wee one. How one's mouth does water. That's one of the hard moments and when Miss Ferbey's back is turned we must say "Satan, get thee behind me." We are shown where everything belongs and told to keep it in its place but that turns out to be quite a problem. I never could remember what was in which drawer and consequently had to go through the whole dozen of them every time I wanted something.

The first attempts at cookery were with hen fruit. If those poor hens could have seen what happened to some of their eggs they would have quit laying. I didn't realize before that just plain poached or scrambled eggs could go by so many names.

Cooked cereal was next in line and grim disappointment registered on the faces of those who had to cook good old-fashioned porridge. After all porridge for breakfast is bad enough without having to down it again in the middle of the afternoon. Some were lucky though and made a very tasty dish of nice white cream of wheat which tasted delicious with brown sugar and cream.

One day Miss Ferbey announced that we were to make waffles. This sounded good and the picture which arose in my mind was of steaming hot, golden, crispy waffles. Some of the resulting products were an exact replica. One look at mine made me decide that making waffles was entirely out of my line. They looked like mud pies which we all used to make, and after trying to eat them I decided that they would make much better mud grip tires than waffles. The accompanying jelly also turned out to be quite a suitable rubber substitute.

Another part of our life in kitchen consisted of our duties such as attempting to sweep the floor with everyone's feet in the way. Another disheartening task was hopelessly trying to clean out the sink and having a pan of thick, greasy water appearing just when the job was nearly completed. It was fun to clear off the service table though because there was often some tasty morsel left. I vividly recall the day we made cakes. The batters looked scrumptious but when we went to put them in the oven it was cold. Someone had read the wrong number for her duty and emptied the garbage pail instead of looking after the fire. We had to stay until after four-thirty and some poor damsels missed her thrill of the day by not being able to walk home with their boy-friends. Instead they stuck their eyes out of the window and enviously eyed the other lucky girls.

At Christmas time we made candy. We were even able to eat the first day's results and we are all still alive. At the end of the class period before Christmas each and every one of us were able to take home a delicately wrapped box of candy, the result of many burnt fingers and arms tired from beating. I left mine too near the register and when I so proudly unwrapped my prize it was all dried out and my father lost his gold tooth in an attempt to eat a marshmallow.

One Friday afternoon we were to cook vegetables. Sounded good as I was hungry once again. However the task of cooking onions fell to me. I handled them so carefully trying to touch them as little as possible. It was hopeless though, and after I finished peeling them my hands smelled just as strong as any onion ever did. The terrible odor just wouldn't wash off. Despite it all they tasted good considering what awful fumes they gave off during the cooking process. After I swallowed the last mouthful it dawned on me that this was Friday night and me with a heavy date. Listerine and strong-smelling hand lotion didn't better the situation any and to say the least I spent rather an onion-conscious evening.

We have had enjoyable times too, such as the day we made ice cream and lots of it too. The sandwiches were also good because it was almost impossible to spoil them after the filling was already made up for us. All in all it was a very enjoyable term despite the burns and scalds. Those who thought at the beginning of the term that they specialized in culinary arts decided that their knowledge was fairly limited after all. The Dumb Doras could at least manufacture a very tasty breakfast or luncheon as the result of six months trials and worries.

Sam Peterson—"Did you ever see a company of women all silent?"

Colin Fraser—"Sure."

Sam—"When?"

Colin—"When the chairman asks the oldest lady present to speak up."

The absent-minded professor had searched frantically for his ticket for some minutes without producing results.

"Never mind," said the conductor, "I know you have it. Mail it to me when you find it."

"That's a minor matter," exploded Mr. Kemp. "I want to find out where I'm going."

Mr. Malyon—"It is a strange thing, but true, that the biggest fools have the most beautiful wives."

Mrs. Malyon (pleased)—"Oh, darling, what a flatterer you are."

Atkinson—"Have you got enough money for a cup of coffee, mister?"

Thompson—"Oh, I'll manage somehow, thank you."

ACHIEVEMENT DAY

ACHIEVEMENT DAY was announced for Saturday, March 28. Coming, this year as in previous years, two weeks after the Little Royal, it completes the displays for the year.

The main part of the programme is staged during the early afternoon in the gymnasium. At this time the girls, acting as their own models, display the dresses, suits, and coats they have made, with the senior girls showing their graduation dresses. At the completion of the programme people are free to visit the other displays, see the farm livestock, or have tea with their friends in the dining room.

In addition to the garments referred to the girls display articles of sewing, needlepoint, weaving and other small articles for the home, made in classes devoted to manual training and household administration. The boys' carpentry display, of which the cedar chests made by the senior boys are a special feature, contains many well-finished articles for the home and shop ranging from knife holders to shop benches and small pieces of furniture.

In the office building are additional displays: Blacksmithing, dairying, cooking, home nursing, chemistry and horticulture.

The blacksmithing display consists of various articles made by the boys, ranging from chisels and tongs to chain tighteners, all of which are useful on the farm. With the remaining exhibits the emphasis is put on educational displays rather than the work done by the students throughout the term.

For those interested in the work of the school and the students, no better opportunity is afforded than that on Achievement Day to see what is actually being accomplished during the year.

PRODUCING FOOD FOR WAR . . .

The munition workers of Britain can't make weapons, nor can men in the armed forces operate weapons without adequate supplies of food. The war job for Canadian farmers is to produce certain essential food commodities in ever increasing quantities to satisfy the needs of Britain.

Because of the excellent training received at the Olds School of Agriculture, graduates will return to their farms better equipped, and we are sure resolutely determined to play their part more effectively in this vital role of producing food for war.

QUALITY WILL TELL

After the Napoleonic wars English agriculture was in a distressed position, and the Government was obliged to assist most of the English farmers.

Scottish farmers, on the other hand, did very well. During the good years they had built up the quality of their flocks and herds, and so enjoyed good sales of breeding stock at high prices to the British government, which passed the well bred animals along to the English farmers.

History may repeat itself after this war, for there will be a good deal of breeding stock needed in Europe. This is simply a word to the wise.

The less people speak of their greatness, the more we think of it.

—Bacon.

Responsibilities gravitate to the person who can shoulder them; power flows to the man who knows how.

Character is the result of two things—mental attitude and the way we spend our time.

The greatest mistake you can make in life is to be continually fearing you will make one.

Man's only enemy is himself. His ignorance of this world and his superstitious belief in another have blocked his pathway.

The world is a looking-glass, and gives back to every man the reflection of his own face. Frown at it, and it in turn will look sourly upon you; laugh at it and with it, and it is a jolly, kind companion.

—William M. Thackeray.

Bill Woodbridge—"If I were to throw you a kiss, what would you say?"

Kay Lawrence—"I'd say you were the laziest man I've ever met."

Dan McNiven, after a night out, woke up and grabbed the hair brush instead of the hand mirror.

"Ye gods," he exclaimed, "but I need a shave."

Polecat—a small animal to be killed with a pole. The longer the pole the better.

Mr. Yauch—"I hope I didn't see you looking at your book. Grettum."

Grettum—"I hope you didn't too."

Jack Perkins—"I dreamt last night that I proposed to you."

Betty Geschwendt—"It shows that you have more sense when you are asleep than when you are awake."

Vic Lowe—"Why didn't you duck when Lora threw the plate at you?"

Stan Gould—"I did, but she allowed for the duck."

Lawrence Landmark—"Darling, I was going to bring you home a little ape, but the captain wouldn't allow it."

Christine Olson—"Never mind, darling, I have you."

Lil Goberg—"You may kiss my hand."

Lynn Haynes—"Wassa matter? Your mouth dirty?"

Mr. Yauch—"What can you tell me about nitrates?"

Spencer—"Well-er-they're a lot cheaper than day rates, sir."

Mr. Benn—"What was George Washington noted for?"

Lawrence Landmark—"His memory."

Mr. Benn—"What makes you think his memory was so great?"

Lawrence—"They erected a monument to it."

Knud Elgaard—"Does your mother ever spank you?"

Gladys Taylor—"Uh-huh."

Knud—"Does your daddy ever spank you?"

Gladys—"I'll say."

Knud—"Which hurts the worst?"

Gladys—"I do."

On Mr. Armstrong's approach to the pearly gates, he remarked to St. Peter—"You've had a fine job here for some time?"

"Well," said St. Peter, "here we count a million years as a minute and a million dollars a cent."

"Oh," said Mr. Armstrong, "I need a bit of cash, lend me a cent, old man."

"Sure," said St. Peter, "wait just a minute."

Charlie MacLaughlin had been studying an etiquette book. A few days later he attend a dinner, and said to the hostess—"Thank you, sir or madam, as the case may be."

Miss Switzer—"Betty, why are you making faces at that bulldog?"
Betty Geschwent (wailing)—"He started it."

Mr. Murray—"What is a mugwump?"
Art Bolton—"A bird that sits on the fence with its mug on one side and its wump on the other."

Mr. Benn—"What did Paul Revere say at the end of his famous ride?"
Kay Watson—"Whoa!"

Mr. McPhail—"Define strategy."
Frank Gattety—"It is when you don't let the enemy know you are out of ammunition, but keep on firing."

Max Gates—"And the bear was just three feet six inches behind me as we raced down the trail. We came to a tree, but the lowest branch was twenty-five feet off the ground. There was no other hope, so I jumped with all my might."

Lester Beck—"Did you make it?"

Max—"Er-well-I$ missed it going up, but I got it coming down."

We see by one of the earlier Chinooks that Frank Kinney was feeding calendars in the mash, to make the hens lay dated eggs. Trouble was he got some 1939 calendars, causing a good deal of concern in the kitchen.

Confucious say—"Couple who make love on staircase not on level."
Eb Burles—"Guess I'll stay in the gym from now on."

Don Stuart—"What did one sausage say to the other?"

Vic Lowe—"Uh-we're just a couple of small fry?"

Don—"Maybe you are; I never knew sausages could talk."
